Anyone desiring them will please leave your name with Smith & Wadell if you do not see me on the street. If you desire this course you must respond liberally. Remember it takes money to conduct it and the manager gets nothing until all obligations are met. I will endeavor to make a personal canvas, but owing to business engagements which create many interruptions, this can only be done at odd times. Think about it, make up your mind how many tickets you want. Ask to see the numbers before I come to you and give me your order. It will save time and much extra work.

After Willson.

"Pool your tobacco," is the appeal made by Commissioner of Agriculture M. C. Rankin, as he starts his row on Gov. Willson who issued his sensational statement last Monday morning urging the independent to form leagues and shoot, if necessary, in the alleged defense of their homes.

The statement of Commissioner Rankin is the first of the guns that will be fired broadside on Governor Willson by the members of the administration whose anger at him is at white heat for issuing his untimely advice to the independents.

This is the last week in the great battle for the pool men and Commissioner Rankin is going to take the lead of the administration on the side of the pool. There will be plenty for Governor Willson to answer when he gets back from Boston.

Insurance Man Gone.

The whereabouts of Mr. Hurst McCarthy, of Lexington, an agent for the Commonwealth Life Insurance Company, who boards at 25 West Maxwell street, in that city, is puzzling his friends and employers. The last seen of Mr. McCarthy at his boarding house was Tuesday morning a week ago, when he left saying he was going to the office.

After reaching the office he left a note to Mr. Tilley, the superintendent of the company, saying he would see him at 10:30 o'clock but nothing has been seen or heard of him since then.

Mr. McCarthy was unmarried and had no troubles as far as is known. His parents and friends are greatly alarmed over his sudden disappearance. He is well known in Paris having lived here.

Funeral of Mrs. Alexander.

The funeral of Mrs. Lucy F. Alexander, who died very suddenly on Sunday night at her home at Woodburn Farm, near Midway was held at the family residence Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The services were conducted by her pastor, the Rev. Gelon H. Rout of Versailles, assisted by the Rev. J. W. Tyler of Midway. The pall-bearers were: Dr. A. J. Alexander, Dr. John Scott, of Lexington, and Messrs. Kenneth Alexander, Joseph Carter, William E. Simms and Lucas Brodhead. The interment took place in the State Cemetery at Frankfort.

Mrs. Alexander was the widow of the late A. J. Alexander, her maiden name being Miss Fullerton, and her native home Chillicothe, Ohio. She was a most lovable woman. Many were her deeds of charity, she being always a liberal giver to any and all worthy causes. Few women who have lived in Central Kentucky have been as greatly beloved and highly esteemed as she, since she became the mistress of the famous Woodburn estate.

Old Soldiers Entertained.

The annual dinner given by the hard Hawes Chapter, D. of C., to the ex-Confederate soldiers of Bourbon at the court house, Saturday, was a most enjoyable affair. Forty gray haired ex-Confederates gathered around the long table, which was laden with delicious meats and in fact everything the market afforded. Mr. John W. Boulden of Maysville a former Bourbon boy asked the divine blessing.

Previous to the sumptuous spread the old comrades assembled in the Circuit Court room for a love feast and recounting of the stirring times of 1861-5. Judge Russell Mann presided the principal address being delivered by Capt. James R. Rogers.

At 2 o'clock p. m. General James Arnold, of Covington, spoke eloquently of the women of the south and north and paid a glowing tribute in memory of the part they took in the conflict.

The following are present: Joseph A. Miller, Martin Bowles, E. P. Thomason, W. A. Morris, Jos. E. Hedges, Lott Young, Lexington; Samuel Talbot, C. H. Meng, C. E. Didlake, James M. Arnold, Covington; Capt. T. E. Moore, Lexington; John W. Boulden, Maysville, John C. Bedford, Geo. W. Morrow, N. C. Rogers, Russell Mann, Pat Shea, Elisha Neal, George Gregory, Allen Kiser, William Cunningham, Edward Rice, Capt. Jas. R. Rogers, J. Henry Holt, J. H. McConahay, O. M. Shanks, J. B. Baker, Pewee Valley; William Stipp, Dr. C. J. Clarke, A. L. Hulse, Cynthiana; Dr. R. D. Weaver, L. J. Fretwell, R. L. DeJarnett, Buckner Woodford, Newton Current, Col. George M. Edgar, Gano Hildreth, Willis Goodman, J. T. Quisenberry and J. Harry Brent.

A REUNION.

At a recent meeting of the Richard Hawes Chapter U. D. C., a notice of a meeting of the Confederate veterans was presented, and the subject of a lunch discussed, whereupon each daughter present signified her willingness by a unanimous vote, sealed with a smile, which expressed the ever tender desire to be able to discharge a pleasant duty.

October 9 was set apart for this meeting and as the day dawned clear and serene, many old soldiers were induced to leave their homes, until the number present was forty six. Those from a distance were Messrs. James M. Arnold, Covington; A. L. Hulse, Cynthiana; J. W. Boulden, Maysville, Lott Young, Capt. T. E. Moore, Lexington, and Mr. Baker, of Pewee Valley.

Long before the time arrived for the veterans to assemble at the court house, the daughters were seen moving to and fro dispensing their labor and love, and during the business hours of the morning, which was presided over by Judge Russell Mann, a delicious lunch was being prepared and tastily arranged to await the coming of the "old soldier." Seated around these tables laden with all the good things devised by the best cooks in Bourbon county, with bowed head, the invocation of Divine blessing was asked by J. W. Boulden.

While the scene was very impressive the writer recalled to mind the ones who were present at the last dinner given by the Daughters and who has since answered the "long roll call." She noted the vacant chairs and missed the kind appreciating smile of those gone: Rev. Dr. E. B. Rutherford, Messrs. Alfred Wornall, A. T. Forsyth, Charles Penn, John D. Penn, Garrard Holt and William Kendall. May their memories ever live in history and may we, the Daughters of the Confederacy ever cherish and reverence through all time.

The afternoon was greatly enjoyed by reminiscence talks from James M. Arnold, Col. Geo. M. Edgar and Capt. James R. Rogers.
